He developed and innovated methodological approaches for the study of user consequences of online platforms with a particular focus on how users and algorithmic mechanisms interact. To honor his legacy, and celebrate his contributions to the field of communication sciences, this session presents three duo’s of colleagues who worked with Cédric throughout three stages in his impressive career. First, Kristin Van Damme and Mariek Vanden Abeele will discuss where it all began for Cédric, as a PhD-student and postdoctoral researcher at Ghent University. Second, Lennert Coenen and Thom Frissen elaborate on the research that he conducted during his time as associate professor at KU Leuven. Finally, our Australian colleagues Nicholas Carah and Sebastian Kaempf will talk about Cédric’s most recent projects, as senior lecturer at the University of Queensland. If you cannot make it to the conference, feel free to join us via Zoom. (Zoom link available on request).
